

Perilous Times

By Rev. James Macleod, Greenock

Young People's Magazine - 1962

What we dreaded for a long time is coming more and more to light, and that is the Jesuitical "Treaty of Rome," commonly called the "Common Market." You young people are up against the most dangerous times in the long history of British Protestantism. WE grieve for you, knowing that you have no leaders to resist the machinations of the Vatican.

There are no Church leaders to direct you, and instruct you – there are no Knox's, Calvin's or Wilberforce's to warn, and to strengthen your hands against the Jesuits in Washington, Paris, Bonn and Rome. Our own politicians are spineless – men void of the fear of God, no conviction, no strength of moral character, playing politics like children playing marbles; ignorant of the Word of God, of Law, and Gospel.

As for the vast majority of the ministers of religion they would be better employed as farm hands after the plough! Another terrible curse is your Daily Press, and Magazines of all kinds (with few, very few exceptions). The curse of "TV" is another formidable enemy, which is largely under the control and direction of the Papists, which is most extraordinary. It is the work of Government offices, and officials – appointing Papists to control the "BBC." And "TV."

It is almost impossible to explain why it should be so, when the Roman Catholic population is less than three per cent of the population of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. It would take the ablest officials in Scotland Yard to search out why it is that so many Papists are in the Foreign Office service, and in various other Government offices at home and abroad. Before the last war the Foreign Office was honeycombed with Papists. We remember writing to the late General Dillon (a splendid Irish Protestant) as to why so many Papists were kept in charge of official affairs in the Foreign Office. He wrote us a personal letter with a full explanation, and a very satisfactory account of what was done by himself and others in that respect.

The Foreign Office needs another "spring cleaning." Of course, the Anglo-Catholics of England are in control of the Government, and they are at one with the Papists, the Vatican and the Common Market.

A friend sent me the following cutting from the South of England, which speaks for itself: -

"Italy putting their Faith in the Market" (Common Market).

"The Vatican, usually cautious over political changes not of its own inspiration, now considers the 'Common Market' the WORK OF DIVINE PROVIDENCE. Not since the times Spain's Charles V has a Roman Catholic political force been so strongly wielded. Not since the end of the Holy Roman Empire had the Holy See been offered a Catholic rallying point like the Common Market. If the 'Pact of Rome,' which created the "Common Market" had been signed within the Vatican walls, it could not favour the church more. Excluding Greece (which has been admitted but is not actively participating) there are today 134,000,000 Catholics out of the total population of 175,000,000 in the original six nations. The only notable Protestant block is in Western Germany, which remains a shaky 51 per cent Protestant. But the 26,000,000 West German Catholics are not a silent minority, and can be compared to the Irish in America for aggressiveness, superb organisation in politics, and calm optimism for the day when they become the majority. Meanwhile, they draw comfort knowing that 77 per cent of the six are Catholics.

"Would the Vatican be disturbed to see Britain and other Protestant countries join the Market? Not at all. Even though several of the countries which have asked to join are considered Protestant countries, their entrance could not upset the Catholic majority. Of the 90,000,000 total population of the would-be members, only 16,000,000 are Catholic. This would reduce the Catholic majority to 56 per cent of the Common Market, but should Spain and Portugal decide to take the plunge the Catholic percentage would jump back up to the 70's again. Small wonder, then, that the Roman Church is smiling benignly over the formation of what one Vatican defined as 'the greatest Catholic super-state the world has ever known!' The 'Holy See' has now set aside one day in the year in honour of the 'Madonna of the Common Market,' when prayers are said and candles are lit in the Churches, for the intervention and protection of the Virgin Mary in what is, after all, the greatest Catholic deal in history."

Now, my young friends, do you see now what you are up against? We consider this the greatest and the most malicious enemy of our Protestant heritage since 1690. As we said in another article, we defeated the French, the Spaniards, the Italians and the Germans, and we were for a long-time mistress of the seas of the world in peace and in war. If Britain joins the Jesuitical

Common Market our "sun" is set without a shadow of doubt, and Britain will become a second or third-class nation with well over six hundred millions within the Commonwealth of Nations. South Africa saw this coming, and got out, and likely, we would say, most probably Australia and New Zealand and Canada too will get out, and poor Britain will be left isolated, and under the feet of the cursed "Treaty of Rome."

The Washington policy has been, and is now, to govern South-East Asia, which would include Australia and New Zealand. Canada cannot remain isolated, for the Vatican policy is to take the "Union Jack" from every building and mast in the world: and set in its place the "Vatican flag"! What should you do in your defence, in the defence of your children and your Protestant heritage? Write your Member of Parliament, and warn him if he should or join the "Common Market" that you will do everything in your power by word, pen and speech that he would not be returned to Parliament at the next Election. You see if we are not cast off by the Most High God, He will raise men that will defend Britain as Cromwell was raised in his day.

The Archbishop of Canterbury going to Rome, Mr Harold Macmillan, Lord Home (our Foreign Secretary), Her Majesty the Queen, Mr Macmillan (brother of our Prime Minister), visited the Pope, and now the Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland; and no doubt Dr. Ramsey (who is in Greece) will pay his respects to Pope John on his return. It is a plot!

No wonder that the Russians cannot trust London, Paris, Bonn or Rome. Prayer is to be earnestly engaged in that God in his infinite mercy would come to our rescue. He can raise up a standard against this flood of iniquity to counteract this awful attempt to destroy the Protestant cause in Europe and all over the world. He has done it over and over again for the last four hundred years, and who can tell? None need doubt for one moment that it is a Vatican policy to pour thousands of Roman Catholic pregnant unmarried women into London from the Continent and from the Irish Republic. It is part the "Common Market Plot."

We are guilty before God, and our own national sins testify against us. The Most High is permitting these plagues to come upon us because of our national sins in Church and State. The discussion in the House of Lords recently on men and women living together unmarried is a conclusive evidence of the spiritual blindness of our rulers. The Seventh Commandment was "written by the finger of God” for nations, for pagans, heathen and civilised nations. Their opinions about marriage-ties can never change the Seventh Commandment.

“And I was very angry when I heard their cry and these words. Then I consulted with myself, and I rebuked the nobles, and the rulers, and said unto them. Ye exact usury, every one of his brother. And I set a great assembly against them. And I said unto them. We after our ability have redeemed our brethren the Jews, which were sold unto the heathen; and will ye even sell your brethren? or shall they be sold unto us? Then held they their peace, and found nothing to answer" (Neh. v: 6-8).